

Laboratory Simulations of Geomechanical Effects of Relevance for Monitoring of CO₂ Injection into the Subsurface

Rune M Holt, NTNU & SINTEF
Jørn F Stenebråten, SINTEF

Synthetic sandstones and claystones have been formed under stress. Experiments along controlled stress paths have been used to mimick injection and depletion – injection processes associated with e.g. CO₂ storage .