

NTNU-Ghana cooperation overview

Bilateral cooperation on Research and Education

The development Norway-Ghana cooperation is concentrated on areas of common interest and expertise, in particular the petroleum, marine and maritime sectors. Norway's main development cooperation program with Ghana is the Oil for Development capacity building program, which aims at supporting sustainable resource, environmental and financial management of Ghana's petroleum sector.

Norway and Ghana share a vision of environmentally and financially sound exploitation of our natural resources, including oil and gas. The main tool for the cooperation is the Oil for Development program. Norway also shares relevant Norwegian experiences from civil society dialogue and mechanisms for coexistence between the petroleum sector, fisheries and local communities shared. The Oil for Development program is the backbone of the development cooperation between the two countries. The program is financed by the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, through NORAD, with relevant Norwegian ministries and institutions as implementing partners.¹
