NTNU University Library

- At the top you will see a search box. Using it will take you to Oria – our search engine.

Oria

- What is Oria?
  - Oria allows you to search the library's printed and electronic collections: books, articles, journals, theses, music, movies, and more.
  - 3 ways of finding Oria:
    - Oria.no
    - Search box on NTNU's University Library webpage (ntnu.edu/ub)
    - On Innsida
- Why use the Sign In button?
  - It's not necessary to sign in to search. But if you want to order and/or renew loans, you have to sign in. You can also save search strings and references once you have signed in.
  - To sign in use your NTNU username and password.
  - See more information on oria.no

Innsida

- You may be wondering… what is Innsida?
  - Innsida (also called Intranet) is NTNU's internal web. Innsida is the start portal for all NTNU-students. It contains information about… well almost everything you'll need to know as a student at NTNU.
    - Try the searchbar on Innsida and search for: literature search or writing master thesis. Did you find anything interesting?
- How can I access Innsida?
  1. Go to innsida.ntnu.no
  2. On the NTNU website

As you can see, here are also links to Fronter and

Databases

- NTNU has a wide range of databases.
  - One of the easiest ways to learn how to use a database, is going to the database and click on help. It's usually found in the upper right corner.
  - You can make your own account in many databases. If you choose to register, you can save, manage and organize search strings as well as articles. For more information, check out the help section for the database.

VPN

- Using VPN (virtual private network), you can connect to the NTNU network and access internal resources like Oria and databases.
  - A must if you are planning on studying from home.
- You will find information about installing and setting up an VPN on NTNU's website
  - Use the search box and search for: Install VPN

- If you need IT help please come to the library and talk to the Oracle support services

Self-service desk at the library

- Feel free to use our self-service desk to borrow, renew and/or return books.
    - Just remember – you need your NTNU card to borrow and renew your loans.
    - Use the little black box to the right to scan your NTNU card
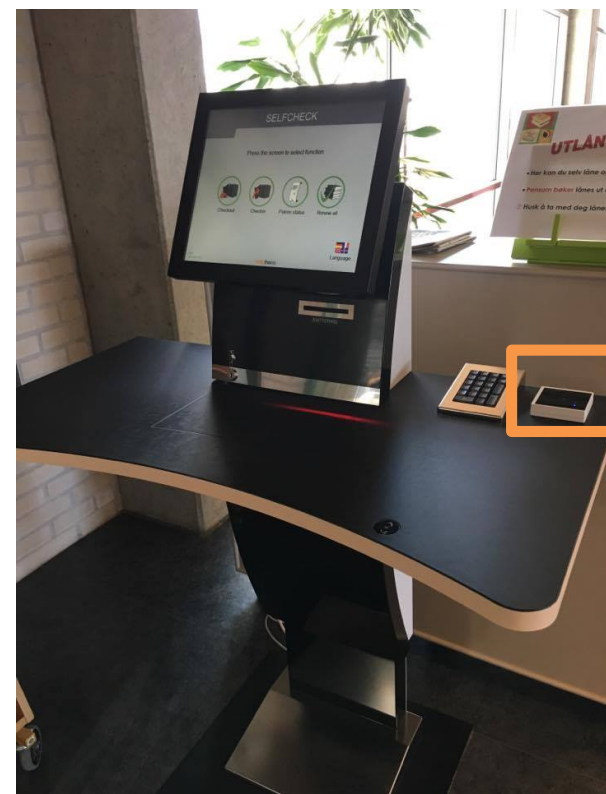

Searching at the library

- Need to find a book at the library? Please use our ipads to search our collection.
  - Note that the ipads can only be used for searching in Oria
